

Be a YouTube-er, make money

Enjoying 15 mins of fame and making money off it in today's smartphone era is not a herculean task. You just need to understand a few tricks of the game and you are up and running

In the yesteryears, when you needed information on a certain topic, you would probably have to read an instruction manual or a dictionary or call up a number that you got from Yellow Pages. Then came the era of search engines. You could now 'Google' your queries and pop came the answers because Google always knows. Now if you need instructions on anything from getting the smoky eyed effect for that party at your classmate's
