

elsewhere. An added advantage of the platform is that you needn't be a business owner to sell products. You could just be a one-time or seasonal seller.

In other words, they are the antithesis of a mass product market place. If that idea matches your product, then this one's for you.

The India Craft House

The IndiaCraftHouse' niche is folk and heritage handicraft products of India.

While the products evoke the pride and glory of a bygone era, their presentation in the website is decisively contemporary.

All products sold on the platform are directly sourced from either artisans or NGOs that work with artisan communities in the subcontinent. They also offer the consumers the chance to shop products based on their state of origin.

So, that's about it. Happy selling!

A marketplace for Indian heritage products