

Shopclues

If you would like to sell via Shopclues, you will find a dedicated page, which provides the steps required to sell via the platform. In addition to the above listed e-commerce retailers, you can also sell via Infibeam, Croma and others. The products covered by manufacturer warranty are mostly dealt by the respective service centres. Otherwise, individual sellers will have to tackle and resolve problems with buyers. Moreover, health products are sold exclusively via Nykaa, Healthkart and other start-up websites. If the product is not returnable, you have to specifically mention it on the product page to avoid disputes. The sale of prescription glasses is handled by the popular retailer Lenskart. Normally, the site offers 14 day return policies which are handled directly by the companies. The site has upped the ante by offering a one year warranty for the frame and lens, which is an excellent initiative to retain customers.

Xiaomi

Xiaomi has been selling smartphones and other accessories via their own shopping (mi.com/in) portal. The company regularly provide free coupons including offering products at discounted prices during festive seasons for a limited time. In the past, the company has provided free smartphones for sharing comments during launch events. Once the coupon code has been received, customers will be forced buy from Xiaomi's online shop. Otherwise, they lose the benefit of discount. Xiaomi is doing a great job when it comes to customer retention. In the same way, Honor also offer special discounts for products from time to time. The push is not only towards existing customers but also to bring in new buyers.

Primeabgb

Primeabgb is an exclusive retail shop for computer accessories. The company ships items directly from their shop based in Mumbai. The contact us page provides the relevant contact details. If you navigate to the bottom of the site, you will find telephone numbers of the service centres, which will help you clarify any doubts after sales. Primeabgb has provided all the basic information on their website, hence, buyers need not call the company to know the details, which saves valuable time. You can go one level higher by asking the buyer what problem they're facing and then discuss with the respective company, which is a good after-sales trend.
