

Paperwork: Licensing

Every country and state has its own set of rules that you need to comply with before you can sell.

If you would like to sell products via your own exclusive website or ecommerce platforms, you need to complete all the required formalities. It includes procuring all the relevant documents, applications and completing all other legal formalities. If you visit a chartered accountant or tax consultant, you will have to pay charges right from the initial consultation. Moreover, you will have to visit their office several times and expose all your documents before them. After reading this chapter, you will be in a position to know about the documents and steps required to establish your business online. So, let's get started.
