Point of Sale Terminal

Point of Sale (“POS”) Terminal or Swipe Machine as it is popularly known is a technological instrument provided to a Merchant Establishment to carry out the sale of goods or services to customers in a cashless environment. All the customer has to do is swipe his/her Debit, Credit or Prepaid Card. Till recently it was at the infant stage however the demonetisation has given it a major push. As the hard cash was sucked out of the economy, people started using more of plastic money. Today one will find swiping machine installed in smallest of shops. The best part, getting one installed is not much of a pain when you see the amount of paperwork involved.

It’s a simple process with nominal charges where the merchant has to fill up an enrollment form and enter into an agreement with the bank. This application has to be processed through the bank branch where the merchant has the current account. Merchant needs to provide necessary documents regarding the proof of business, address proof, photo identity proof of the proprietor/ partner/ key promoters etc.
