

of a business has to be managed by you. Also, did you know about all those hidden costs that pile up to a sizeable chunk? Well, now you do. It's, therefore, prudent to make use of marketplaces to get your products into the hands of your customers. Sometimes, you'd want an extra-level of customisation that only a personalised website can provide. However, you're already aware of the massive costs included with such an approach, worry not, there are ways in which you can strike a balance between providing that personal touch without having to spend a massive amount. It's called drop-shipping and we've detailed that in a dedicated chapter within this FastTrack. So what are you waiting for? Maybe this FastTrack can give you the confidence to set out and build your own brand in the world of ecommerce. We hope it will be.
