

A to B: Beyond sales

Beyond the jazz of a brilliant website and marketing strategy, sound logistics is the real backbone of an online business.

So your website is up and running, all the formalities are done with and you have gone live. Wait, is that your first customer? Are they gonna do it? Is this happening? They are going for it, they are doing it and yes they have placed an order! Break out the champagne folks, you just closed your first sale. Sorry to burst your bubble but the job is far from done. You just completed one leg of the journey. Now it's time to go behind the scenes.

Welcome to the glamorous world of shipping your products- ensuring that the customer receives the goods ordered from your website. If you