

Geo

This report contains information on the Language and Location of your visitors. In the Language report, you can view Acquisition, Behavior and Conversions for site users who speak different languages – particularly useful if your business covers regions with multiple languages. The Location report features a virtual map of your users' locations, which is useful for targeting search and social ads. You can zoom in on data at the city level, which allows local businesses to know if their marketing efforts are driving traffic and conversions from the right regions, and is also useful for publishers who want to create locally-focused content.

Behavior

This section is broken down into 3 reports: New vs Returning, Frequency & Recency and Engagement. Between these 3 reports, it tells you the number

Behavioural analysis is the most important aspect of customer profiling