

Setting goals and tracking performance

Setting up measurable goals and tracking the performance is a crucial post campaign activity

Usually users of GA use the tool to learn more about their website's performance. They are interested in understanding how many visitors have landed on their website, what is it that they are interacting with while there, how long do they stay around, etc. But GA will not always give you simple answers for all of these