

Picking the right cabinet

Your PC case has a say when you're considering cooling solutions. Here's what you should look for.

So you don't have a complete system or you're planning on a massive upgrade and need to buy a new chassis. If you're going to buy a powerful configuration then you will need decent cooling. Since you don't have a cabinet to begin with, you might as well get one that's compatible with whatever cooling solution you wish to buy.

Finalising the components of your PC is an iterative process. Even if you finalise your cooling solution, you might not be able to find a cabinet that is compatible, or perhaps the compatible cabinet doesn't sell in India. Yes,