

Local and foreign

In an endless list of online stores and marketplaces that sell everything from A to Z, it pays to know websites that ship offshore with unique selling points. So what are all the big names in this area?

If you think about the wars between local and international traders, it's a never-ending tirade of winning over consumer interests and keeping them happy enough to become repeat customers. There has been a strong shift to consumers banding up and buying what they want and need from online retailers in the face of several demerits from Indian stores.