

Cashback Sale” for only three days that started on September 20 and will likely be repeated in the coming years. The company will host flash sales, when cashback amounts will be even higher, from 2 pm to 6 pm and 8 pm to midnight every day.

Getting more bang for your buck

In case deep discounts are not enough to lure customers, e-commerce portals have gone a step further in linking up with banks and e-wallet companies to offer deals that could give consumers more bang for their buck.

Along with “No Cost EMI” offers, buyers will find several other offers littered across thousands of products. For instance, Flipkart’s has joined hands with India’s largest lender, The State Bank of India (SBI), to offer a 10% additional discount for consumers who shop with SBI’s debit or credit cards. This discount has been applied on bills of ₹1,500 or above and shopping expenses that exceed ₹4,999.

Flipkart is also promoting the use of the Unified Payments Interface (UPI) wallet, PhonePe, by giving first-time users an additional 10% cashback (capped at ₹100) on their purchases.

Meanwhile, Amazon India isn’t falling back either. One tip to earn back from Amazon India is by using its digital wallet that has 25% cashbacks on purchases made through Amazon Pay. Like Flipkart, the Indian arm of US-based Amazon has tied up with HDFC Bank to offer a 10% additional discount on certain items if purchased through the bank’s debit or credit cards on the platform.

Similarly, Snapdeal shoppers are entitled to will get a 10% cashback on most items using debit or credit cards from Axis Bank.

Shopclues has chosen to stick with digital payment companies for such offers. It’s working along with Mobikwik and Airtel Payments Bank to offer a cashback of up to 50% on purchases made through the two.
