

If you're thinking about stepping to the beach in beachwear than there's no better month than August. Stores want to clear out summer leftovers to make room for fall merchandise. What this means is that the average price for even a speedo gets chopped well below the price during other months.

Cars and computers are the best to be bought in the next months of September and October in the country due to the back-to-school rush being over and festive sales.

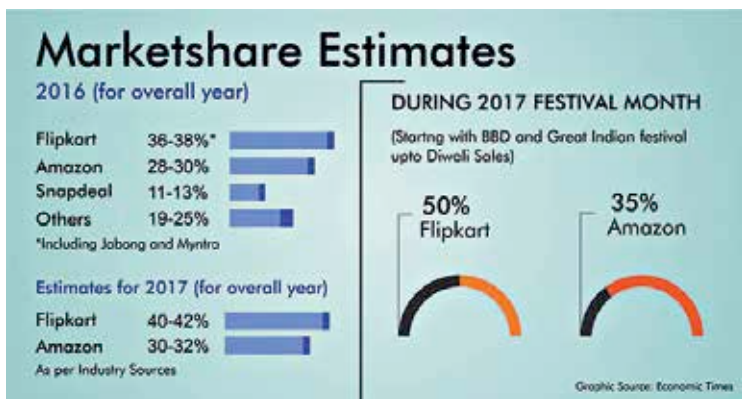

During November and December months, winterwear will be in high demand so it would be ideal to avoid buying those at this point unless you really missed out on all deals earlier. This would also be a good time to check what deals you've missed throughout the year and make a list. Those deals and products might come on discounted prices at year end sales around Christmas and New Year sales from many ecommerce websites.

All of that being said, the ecommerce sector is highly competitive in India and there are sales being thrown in every now and then. Keep an eye out for good deals and use the tools mentioned later in this Fast Track to track good deals.

Festivals in the country

Amazon's Great Indian Festival

During its annual festival, the company gives out simple bargains at alluring costs over a few categories, for example, cell phones, tablets and PCs. Organisations like Chevrolet, Musafir.com and Brigade have likewise tied up with Amazon for shock giveaways amid this deal.

Market share of online stores