

Gettings started with your first project

Dazzled by the prospects of augmented reality? Chances are you're not the only one reading this and thinking about sinking your teeth in some great projects. Being even a little prepared pays off rather than simply doing things with large approaches and constant confusion.