

Configure Build Settings

Let's move on to the steps for configuring the build settings for the main project before creating the app on ARKit and ARCore.

There are a few steps to take care of before we go about configuring the built environment for both systems. We will need the potential ideals of Unity before moving on to a project and include some prerequisites to make sure that all the requirements are taken care of.