

Know your tools

Get some insight on how to choose the right photo editing software designed for your needs

This is clearly the era of social media. Instagram, Facebook, Snapchat and the likes have taken over our lives - both online and offline. Uploading pictures of everything, from your meals this morning to funny things your pet does, has become the norm. If nothing else, the popularity of hashtags like #ootd (outfit of the day) prove that the online world is about sharing photographs all day long.

That being said, if you have taken up photography for reasons other than sharing your selfies, you must still enjoy the convenience that these