

Conclusion

You've basically learnt how to create a simple 3D model and perform some basic rigging to animate the object. It goes without saying that most of the projects that you see on TV make use of much more complex rigs and animations and are certainly a lot more detailed but this was a setting stone. Feel free to experiment and animate the scene further. 