

59

SuiteCRMBrief Description:

SuiteCRM is open-source and it is an effective platform for customer relationship management. It enables users to monitor sales and build models according to their expectations. This platform includes the pricing aspects and reviews of the customers. Users can download it free of cost from the various service providers. Many have given positive reviews about this software which provides a great amount of customisation to create your own models. Based on the application input, the business takes care of the potential clients and tries to utilise all the options to maximise the customer satisfaction.

Why you must get it:

Getting SuiteCRM would help users consult the sales process and allow them to manage the oncoming projects too. The sales team could easily track the leads and bring sales details under a single platform. It is a user-friendly application which integrates with other platforms also. This software is designed to provide a great option to enhance sales and convert all the trapped leads into a possible outcome. This software directs the business to innovation, which in turn, would work in the product development and finds ways for customer care. This would work on an enterprise aspect and take the leads according to business requirements. Most effectively, the mid-sized clients and small business get their greatest supports by using this software. ROI calculation, servicing, sales and financial management are some of its beneficiary packages.

60

vTigerBrief Description:

Have you heard of the CRM for small enterprises? It is all vTiger is designed for. The integration features of vTiger takes the software to the next level of business and works beyond the standard capacity. This software works on a customisation process which would meet every expectation of the clients. The productive aspect of the software makes the user prefer the application more and they are kept informed. This is perfectly designed to email the marketing aspects, deliver the sales automation quantities and enhance the customers' engagement. This would also help in making smart decisions.