

using FB and also in leading the conversation and creating meaningful FB groups. Over half of the FB users are familiar with a language other than English.

FB ads have approximately 400% of ROI. However, this number is purely an outcome of the aftermath of situational statistics. In the advent of new social media platforms, Facebook continues to rule the roost in the context of advertisements. There are a few products for which FB works best. They include retail products, consumer products, educational products, eco-friendly products, etc.

Facebook Page vs Profile: Time to recognize the difference

The entire dilemma regarding Facebook Page vs Profile may leave you quite perplexed. Ironically, not many Facebook users know that it is extremely crucial to comprehend the difference between a Facebook Page vs Profile to optimise the benefits imparted by FB. Nevertheless, this comprehensive guide below will help you get rid of the entire dilemma of whether to go with a Facebook Profile or a Facebook Page.

Facebook Profile

A Facebook Profile is a personal account assigned to a user after the sign-up process. This profile excludes the business information related to a user. An FB profile is a platform for a user to connect with friends, family members, colleagues, etc. Therefore, it must be restricted to personal use.