

Twitter

Why you should pick Twitter –
Audience profile, expected ROI, what products work best

Twitter, with its extensive features, tops the list of social media platforms to gather billions of data points. It monetized its usage only a few years ago and has been in business since then. With digital marketing taking an upper hand to establish brands, Twitter decided to make some changes in its algorithm to benefit both the audience and the companies. Brands like Starbucks and Nintendo came to power through Twitter and their exceptional strategizing abilities.

Twitter has some really strict policies guiding their set of elaborate features. Each of these features is designed carefully by their team to cater to the needs of various people. While some features are dedicated to the users, some find extensive usage and importance in the hands of companies and leading