

Snapchat

Snapchat Ads.

“The cornerstone of Snapchat is different from any other platform. Content is often natural and unedited, showing behind-the-scenes footage or real-life activities that remain unfiltered.

So, is it really meant for paid advertising? Do people even engage with brands on Snapchat, let alone paid ads?” - Neil Patel

<https://dgit.in/SMM20>

This article by Neil Patel, that is present on his blog, is of significance in answering the questions about advertisements on Snapchat. This piece throws light on some issues that are mostly relevant to their background team of this social media platform. For the ones who are inquisitive to know how Snapchat monetizes its features and resources, this article is a great read.

Conversion tracking.

“On Wednesday, Snapchat unveiled the Snap Pixel, a conversion-tracking tool for brands to measure how their ads on Snapchat may have impacted traffic on their sites.” - Marketing Land

<https://dgit.in/SMM21>

WhatsApp

Conversion tracking.

“...if users are supposed to click on a button to get your number or connect with you through whatsapp, you could use event tracking in Analytics.” - Google Employee. Source: Google Advertiser Community

<https://dgit.in/SMM22>

Although not a conventional article about the conversion tracking procedures on WhatsApp, this largely includes questions from people which have been answered mostly by Google employees. This page can provide fruitful insight into the procedure of conversion tracking on WhatsApp.

Ethics of the platform.

“Whatsapp is a platform which is widely used, and widely exploited...will talk about disinformation on WhatsApp. You may have heard about fake news in India, but disinformation is spread in other countries too. For this discussion, we focus on Brazil.” - Source: Podcast on Twaats

<https://dgit.in/SMM23>