

entire team. Most of these games are built on a five-on-five perspective where two teams compete against each other to win.

MOBA characters are given a role such as that of a fighter, defender, assassin, or any other as the gameplay suits. You are expected to play your part in helping the team win. The map layout is for the most part, fixed, with almost every map traditionally having three lanes for you to choose from.

You get points in the form of spendable currency every time you kill an enemy. This is what you use to purchase items within the game. The character you choose will have some strengths and some weaknesses. MOBAs rely heavily on teamwork, it's difficult to win a game by yourself. There are several variations as the gameplay moves forward, and you begin crossing hurdles one after another relentlessly.

Paladins Strike

A game developed by Hi-Rez Studios, Paladins Strike, is a mobile-based MOBA that features 5v5 real-time battles. It is a smaller version of Paladins, a team-based shooter for PC, that comes from the same developers. It also features the same characters from the shooter with similar abilities.

You can choose between 15 champions for the gameplay. Each character has unique skill sets and weapons. The gameplay is relatively straightforward; you select your hero and get down on the battlefield. You have multiple modes to choose from, and it also allows you to connect with your friends to play with them as a team or as opponents.
