

CCG's are versatile enough to host fantasy, horror, and sports themes. Collectible card games offer multiplayer matches, although these are usually played by two players only.

The genre is seemingly the crowned prince of the gaming world, and certainly has a lot to boast when it comes to its scope. Here is a list of the hottest mobile collectible card games for you:-

Age of Rivals

'Ages of Rivals' has deck building as the primary goal so that you can take on multiple opponents by the virtue of different decks set up at your helm. It offers a different experience as the cards have to be set up before the onset of every match.

The winner of the game is decided by the number of points to a player's name at the end of the match, and collecting maximum points is the ultimate aim of the game. A majority of the points that have to be collected, are culture points.

Multiple elements are attached to and hosted by every single card. These elements could include all or any of these: - Culture points, attack points, extra income and others.

The game demands stability for the maintenance of civilisation. It is done by assuring that the winner would be the one who would be strong at collecting points and the war zone too. The game also teaches the significance of making choices as the decisions made in the first three rounds of the game can become deciding factors at the end. Age of Rivals is a fast-paced game, and it begins with an easy to follow tutorial.

