

The ultimate aim of the game is to defeat Ulberich and to do so, you have to embark on a journey as a hero or saviour. The game hosts four different heroes and you are free to make your own choice of a hero. The journey offers you many new cards on the way which you can use to build your deck.

You shall get a chance to attain more than 75 cards for your deck throughout the game facing several different enemy figures on the journey. The cards would ultimately be of use to you when you would have to face the boss of monsters at the end of the game – the Ulberich.

Faeria

If you enjoy planning and strategy, Faeria can certainly be a great choice for you. It is a simple card game that gives you the task of building and shaping the battlefield and fighting a war with your enemies. Deck Building continues and the option to design and shape your battlefield puts your creative and strategy-making abilities to work.

Several other features make it one of the most loved games in the CCG genre. These features include a no paid cards, uniquely strategic card game. You also get to enjoy more than 100 different solo experiences.

The game also has a draft mode that allows you to test your deck-building abilities. It is overall the ultimate mix of strategy and living board game.

Prospects of CCG in future

When it comes to collectible card games, their significance to the gaming world is pretty clear. The aforementioned games have received immense
