

Total Party Kill

Total Party Kill has a rather interesting concept. This game involves killing your friends en route to victory! There are three characters you play – a Knight, a Mage and a Ranger. All the characters have a signature style in which they kill and the weapons they wield. The Knight wields a sword and throws the other two across the room. The Mage uses an ice bolt to freeze his friends, while the Ranger shoots arrows that pin his friends to the wall.

But, where are the puzzles, you might be thinking. The game is full of exciting puzzles that make you think, plan and strategize. If solving a complex problem is your scene, Total Party Kill is just for you. Each level requires you to ensure that at least one of the three characters exit a dungeon.

As you level up, the game requires you to combine the powers of two characters to complete certain levels. With 60 highly engaging levels, this game is bound to get you hooked in no time. If you think a puzzle game cannot hold your attention, Total Party Kill will change your notions forever.

Aquavias

You must have played several puzzle games where you need to arrange pipe sections to control the flow of water in order to win. Aquavias is based on that premise but that is where the similarities end. Aquavias is much, much more.

Aquavis is a puzzle game where your challenge is to prevent drought in the cities by constructing a series of aqueducts to fill reservoirs, the Amphitheater, Hanging Gardens, Temple of Claudius, the baths and