

game. The main aim of doing so is to provide the players with a realistic experience of snowboarding. One of the most challenging things about this game is that a person has to complete the race within the given time. The presence of this time-attack makes this game more interesting for the players. d