

Some of which have implemented some unique twists to existing formulae and have ended up with a game that is quite a refreshing change. Take for example, Cultist Simulator which is a collectible card game with a narrative set in the 1920's that has you on a journey to establish a Lovecraftian cult. It's diverse set of cards don't end up giving you an easy-to-follow meta since every match feels quite distinct from the previous match. That's just one of nearly 100 games that have been featured in this FastTrack. We've tried to feature mostly 2019 releases but there are certain genres where we felt there weren't enough good launches in 2019 so we've featured some games from 2018 and 2017 as well.

As always, we're open to suggestions for what the next FastTrack should be about. You can drop us an email (editor@digit.in) or hit us up on the Telegram Group to speak to the editors directly and make your suggestions heard.
