

of global importance and impact, such incidents have a chance of leaving a dent on its reputation, that was acquired at a cost of millions of dollars of marketing strategy. Moreover, a platform as large as TikTok would always want to protect its users from falling prey to cyber crime.

Hence, these guidelines are not simply important, but they are, in fact, indispensable. Four such safety measures are as follows:

1. Minimum age requirements: TikTok has emerged as a platform for one and all. However, it has risen to its peak of popularity more among the teenagers. Nonetheless, an age restriction was a vital guideline as the usage of Internet can be quite harmful for kids given the large variety of predators awaiting their entry into the realm. For TikTok, the minimum age restriction is 13. Children below this age cannot create an account on the app as it is estimated that they do not have the sense of Internet ethics to actually participate in the proceedings of the application. However, the age 13 is of significance for the company. Since it marks the beginning of the teen years, they are actually appealing to the teenage population. A user account is more like an incentive for all the new teens who can then begin to use the app without any restrictions.
2. Smart use of Internet ethics: Although the minimum age guideline was put in place to ensure only people with proper Internet ethics use the app, it is not always the case. Plenty of the older users also fall prey to heinous crimes originating from the Internet. This is chiefly because they lack knowledge about Internet ethics. Commonly known as ‘netiquettes’, these define the do’s and don’ts of the virtual world. It is advisable for all to know and understand these rules before venturing into a platform like TikTok as it hosts all kinds of users. This is especially applicable for the teenagers who are easy targets of criminals.
3. Staying alert: Even with the age restriction and additional rules in place, people fall into trouble. This is mostly because they do not remain cautious enough. Staying alert is the key to staying safe while on the Internet.

Since this application deals with visuals like images and videos, it is easier to use it against a user. Some ways to stay safe on TikTok are as follows:

- a. Filter your content. Don't post videos or photos that can harm you or others around you.
