

- b. Stay away from profiles that you find suspicious. Do not follow them or allow them to follow you.
- c. Report any suspicious activities. If you find something unusual happening, inform the TikTok community.
- d. Ensure that your account private. Private accounts are especially beneficial as it allows only a select few people to access and watch your videos. This way, you will have a lot of control over your visibility on TikTok.

4. Choosing trends carefully:

TikTok is all about trends. Most challenges originate from this very app, especially the ones related to creative arts. However, not all these challenges are safe to participate in. For example, a year or two back, two fatal trends came to the forefront- The Blue Whale and the Momo Challenge. Both involved undertaking self-harming tasks, ending with suicide. Although the former was a game application and the latter a random challenge, both of them started from social media platforms like TikTok. Hence, it is always better to participate in ones where there is no element of mystery.
