

cient ways of making a strong footing on TikTok are hashtags and challenges.

a. Hashtags: Hashtags have set the trend now. They are everywhere and are used frequently by everyone. However, hashtags are more than just a trend. They are tags that help you find something easily. When you put a particular hashtag on your post, you are actually putting a bookmark on it. If someone attempts to look for your post, they can simply do it by looking for the hashtags that you have used. This makes you a known face as every time someone searches for a particular hashtag that you have used, your posts pop up.

b. Challenges: TikTok is full of challenges. While some revolve around lip-syncing to famous dialogues, some others are more like the famous Bala Challenge that has taken the Internet by storm. Most challenges gain a popular ground from TikTok and many others originate from this application itself. It is usually the challenges and your innovative execution of the same that actually makes it worth watching. Besides, if your performance stands out, there is every possibility that you will become a name in no time.

5. Managing the metrics: Social media is all about notifications. And TikTok is no different. As you explore the app and upload videos, your metrics will increase and so will your notifications. In such a scenario, you must be well prepared to actually manage them like a professional. You can tinkle with the settings and change or customise them according to your preferences.

Why you should be on TikTok

Now, you might be wondering what is so special about TikTok. There are plenty of other social media platforms that you can use. Then, why TikTok. To understand this better, you will have to go through the following list.

1. For entertainment:

TikTok is the perfect platform for all entertainers. But you can also
