

your performance. You can also perform a duet in your video. There is a duet button on the screen for the same.

Alternatively, you could imitate known performers and stars, and keep up with the trend, such as— what you did on the favourite festival (Diwali or New Year). If your video does well, then you could make more videos along the same lines.

The idea is to showcase whatever talent you possess, and it could be speaking a different language or your singing. Sometimes, the videos could be impromptu, and at other times you might just be showcasing the travels you went on.

If you run out of ideas, then make your pet a performer in a video, capture every moment of your pet's life and upload the same, to make your pet becomes an overnight star. By doing that, you may feel like a celebrity sharing your dog's cutest moments.

The above information is for people who are new to TikTok, but a vast audience has been using TikTok for a while now.

TikTok: ahead of the rest

The people who have spent some time on TikTok see the app as a place where videos go viral, such as the Ice Bucket Challenge on Facebook. If the TikTok statistics are to be believed, you can say that TikTok will be leaving behind Facebook, Snapchat, and Instagram in the coming five years or less.

Let us discuss some more features of TikTok for those who are quite well-versed in the app. For instance, if you visit the fashion section of
