

wars, nudity, stalking, and lack of privacy, so why blame the goofy and relatively harmless TikTok app?

TikTok is high key

People who have been using TikTok for a while now know that it is a great platform to get noticed on if you have any talent, especially in music, dancing, lip-syncing, make-up or comedy.

The special effects on TikTok can make revolutionary changes to your present yourself, the people who are on TikTok know that there are privacy issues, but they know to be careful. TikTok is very popular right now, but it will soon have to start churning out new features, to remain successful.

So, TikTok has taken note and is rolling out ads, and McDonald's has been one of the first market leaders to advertise on TikTok. McDonald's conducts the same challenge every time, and it is the Big Mac Challenge — the contest period is given, you have to dance to the McDonald's tune, and you may be eligible to earn cash prizes.

Now, let's talk about how the most experienced businesses are using TikTok for their benefit. Firstly, Human Resource managers are using TikTok to make HR sessions more interactive. Second, starting their TikTok channel just like making YouTube channels. Finally, posting pictures that are suitable for spreading awareness about your business. Then, those who are already social media influencers, use TikTok to enhance brand value and need to find that audience on TikTok which you are targeting.
