

was no longer Levis but GUESS. TikTok had GUESS making a lot of money in this way.

Restaurants can also do well by marketing on TikTok, restaurants because teens and young adults never fail to try new eating joints, so if there is a restaurant like McDonalds, then TikTok and the eating joint can strike a great profitable deal.

If you are still not convinced that media channels can have a gala time on TikTok, then leave your concerns aside and observe the market for months before making a decision.

Ad makers could get viewers, and prospective buyers hooked with the 'Shiny Object Syndrome', where people who buy from social media are the most significant market. TikTok helps them with a few clicks, or a few hundred thousand in some cases.

Live your best life - Make it LIT!

The best part of TikTok till now is that it does not standardise you. You are not typecast or stereotyped when using TikTok.

Additionally, when you are marketing to users on TikTok, then your budget and staff matter less than when you were aiming for a customer on any other platform, but that does not mean that big brands cannot work on TikTok. Big brands very well can, such as Nike and McDonald's.

If we were to talk about in-app purchases only, then it can be said that year after every year, the app has been selling by an increase of 300% every year, so if you are smart with technology, then you can use TikTok as a place where you go to earn. The total revenue on TikTok of what is selling and what is being sold is $3.5 million.

We have discussed three kinds of TikTok users until now. First, the kids who need parental guidance. Then come those who have been on TikTok since its release. Finally, those who use TikTok to market goods