

Attend and host live or virtual events and meet-ups

Attending the relevant events or meet-ups can remarkably speed up the entire process of building engagement with your target audiences. Learn about your niche, draw inspiration, and make productive connections while you expose your talent and expertise to the world. Be assured that the time and effort invested in this process will not go waste.

Leverage the authority of referral marketing

Since time immemorial, referral marketing has proved to be a foolproof promotional marketing tool. If you are all set to launch your TikTok channel or if your channel has undergone a facelift, it is time to leverage the power of referral marketing. Referrals from family, leading industry influencers, friends, etc, are competent to convert leads comparatively much faster than any other means. Since referral marketing is an extremely cost-effective growth hacking tool, you can expect minimal CPA cost. Also, you tend to enjoy enhanced retention rates in the context of referral marketing than any other marketing promotional tool. To sum up, referral marketing is one of the most user-friendly growth-hacking techniques, to begin with, that not only enhances your subscriber base but also boosts your brand awareness.

Invest in partnerships

‘Collaboration’ is indeed the term of the decade in the context of the virtual world. If you are yet to come up with an infallible partnership strategy, it is time to do the needful. Whether it is about creating a buzz or strengthening your brand positioning, meaningful and relevant collaboration always ends up delivering more than what is expected out of them. One after another, brands are looking for creative approaches to get hold of relevant collaborations to leverage the impact of co-marketing. If you have discovered your niche, the next step should inarguably be seeking an apt and interesting ‘resourceful collaboration’. It will serve various purposes right from channelising organic traffic to your TikTok channel to enhancing your video content visibility.

