

adopter you can certainly reap enhanced benefits of this engaging app. Moreover, chances are high that the benefits that come with early adoption may prevail over potential perils. The aggressive TikTok marketing strategy demands to seek collaborations with brands to enjoy a greater level of independence and flexibility on the social media landscape. If you become successful in launching an innovative TikTok campaign, you can garner a considerable amount of media attention. Being an early adopter also requires adopting a flexible attitude towards the trial-and-error approach. For an early adopter, there are barely a few guidelines and sources related to the knowledge-acquisition.

Associate with longtail content creators

Partnering with longtail content creators from the relevant domain is yet another brilliant growth-hacking TikTok strategy that if executed in a well-planned manner can deliver unexpectedly positive results. Also, this strategy, unlike other strategies, does not burn hole in pockets due to relying on the principle of win-win. One of the best examples of this strategy is a Douyin campaign executed by a global designer luxury brand Michael Kors. This campaign named “City Catwalk” in the form of a hashtag challenge became successful in garnering the whopping amount of impressions where users enthusiastically posted their catwalk videos flaunting the vivid products of Michael Kors.

Try out the #Hashtag Challenge strategy

Driving Hashtag campaigns are certainly no walk in the park but think of the return that they are capable of delivering. The ‘hashtag’ has been successful in proving itself as one of the most brilliant authoritarian tools on various social media platforms in terms of driving massive organic traffic besides building and enhancing awareness. If you have dynamic authenticity-driven video content, it is time to rely on the power of Hashtag to augment brand visibility and loyalty of the target audience. The best example of the same is creative TikTok videos showcasing talents in vivid forms featuring trending hashtags. Since this app is devoid of annoying advertisements; it scores well on the aspect of user-retention. How about drawing some inspiration from an iconic global apparel brand ‘GUESS’ that did come up with an idea to conduct experimentation with a sponsored hashtag campaign. They named the TikTok campaign as #in denim. Thereafter, the brand unveiled a few of its official videos showcasing TikTok influencers. In no time, users flocked