

figuring out which niche/style/topic you can make your TikTok videos around. Followed by how you can use the built-in analytics as well as external tools to grow your TikTok profile in an organic manner so that you can monetise your content and make a decent living off it. Scoring a brand deal isn't as easy as one assumes, so we've listed a few steps that you can follow to build your presence and get noticed by marketing agencies. Then there's the part for marketing agencies to identify upcoming influencers on the platform who're best suited to spread the word about their products.

We are well aware of how polarising this topic is for existing readers of FastTrack, which is why we're always listening to your feedback to help pick topics for future editions. As always, do write in to editor@digit.in and don't hold back. 