

and why should people prefer it over others. TikTok has no issues whatsoever with you trying to sell your products on its platform.

The most effective way to use subtle advertising techniques. You create those funny videos as always and add the promotional part in the middle or towards the end. What it will do is, entertain your audience as well as make them take notice of what you are trying to sell.

Become an Amazon Affiliate

Amazon Affiliate is another method in which you can use social media to earn some money. Previously, you had to use link shorteners to be able to place them on your bio. With TikTok already testing the new feature to let users add links to their bio, adding affiliate links is set to become a whole lot easier. This feature is in the testing phase and is expected to see the light of the day soon.

You are foolish if you expect your audience to write down the link as you dictate them. So there is no point in even thinking of implementing it. Until the new feature becomes live, you can try using link shorteners. The shorter the link, the more comfortable it is for others to use it. It also gives you more chances of grabbing a referral. No one likes unnecessary clutter.

Here is another aspect that you must cater to – relevance. If your content and links are not related to each other, you may get people to click it for your sake, but the turnover rate will be lousy. Only gaming accessories