

You get hooked to these videos because they are well thought out and created with passion. Hence, when you wish to go viral, make sure you know the first stepping stone of the drill. You cannot achieve the title of a viral star unless you have done thorough research on your closest competitors and the space you want to occupy.

Create useful content in a creative manner

Most of us have an encyclopedia at home but how many of you have actually read it? Okay, we can sense a lot of guilt here. So, you get the point? No matter how much hard work you have put in if your content isn't creative and fun-filled, nobody is going to waste a minute of their time on it. This holds true especially when it comes to creating visual content. The audience is looking for unique, snappy and entertaining video content.

You spend hundreds of bucks on watching a movie in a theatre but it turns out to be an absolute disaster. Many individuals will actually choose to walk out on the movie even if they have paid money. Well, that is exactly how people react to spiritless videos on Tik Tok, and they haven't even paid money to watch these. So, your content needs to be especially engaging.

Every step you take on this platform has to be calculated and that is why we suggest research. However, the calculation is not the end of everything. Your content needs to have a soul and a purpose. So, when you churn out videos make sure they are useful to your audience. The bottom line, you ask?

Consistency is key

When we talk about driving the traffic, you need to be consistent. Consistency is one tool that can make or break your entire social media game,
