

and confidentiality during peer-to-peer transfers. These provide anonymity to such internet traffic so that ISPs don't throttle BitTorrent users and ban them.

- It allows you to give back to the community by uploading files by creating a torrent which other torrent users can download onto their device. You can also configure other sharing behaviours.
- uTorrent gives you access to many features when downloading files. Firstly, if you are downloading torrent files, which have got sub-files, you can set priority downloading for particular files that you deem important.
- There's also download information which gives you details regarding your downloads such as uploading and downloading speed, seeds and leechers and other transfer information. The peers tab on the downloading tab shows the current torrent users who are downloading or seeding the torrent.
- You can track your torrent with proper information in the Trackers tab which displays all the tracker information. It shows a list of all the available uploaders (Seeds) and downloaders (Peers).
- It also shows the number of times the torrent has been downloaded along with the speed by maintaining a graph of the relative download speed over time.
- uTorrent has also been localised for 67 languages for convenient use. It has a minimalist user-interface design and a customisable Search Bar. It also allows portable use of the files by storing it in a single directory.

These are some of the features which are common in both the paid as well as the free versions, but the paid version comes with added features. The paid version of uTorrent is known as uTorrent Plus.

The paid features are as follows:

- Virus protection: The internet is a free space without any extreme regulation. This gives perpetrators the bandwidth to upload anything by seeding any kind of file onto the client. With the paid version of uTorrent, you will get anti-virus protection which will scan your files for viruses and malware before you download any particular content. This ensures that you are downloading the right piece of content.
- No advertisements: Since uTorrent is a free client of BitTorrent, you can get as many files as you wish. It earns nothing from your down-
