

- VI. Again wipe the cover to eliminate all the leftover soap.
- VII. Leave your cover in an open-air overnight to dry it out or simply, wipe it with a dry and soft cloth or a towel. However, do not immediately put it back.
- VIII. While cleaning the cover, you can clean the back portion of your smartphone and tablet with an alcohol-based disinfectant. For your knowledge, using harsh cleaners, such as window cleaners, bleach, crème cleansers, or any other detergent-based agents on your cell phone and tablet screen is strictly prohibited as these agents destroy the gadgets' oleophobic coating and can even turn your phone's screen foggy or streaky.

MICE

Just like the keyboard, the process of cleaning a mouse is also the same. Start by unplugging your desktop/laptop and turning it off. Additionally, unplug the cord of the mouse from the computer/laptop before cleaning it.

- I. Since your hand is in frequent contact with the mouse, using alcohol-based cleaners is the best way to kill all invisible bacteria.
- II. For this, prepare a solution with half alcohol and half water proportion. Dip a Q-tip in that solution and rub that damp material on the body and at the base of the mouse.
- III. With the help of a wooden toothpick, you can easily remove any grime and other tiny particles out of the nooks and crannies of the mouse.

Game Controllers

Same as the mouse, game controllers are easy to clean using a Q-tip and an alcohol-based solution.

- I. For deep cleaning of the controllers, Q-tips dipped in an alcohol-based chemical can be of great help to scrub the surface and the back of your gaming controllers.
- II. Using a toothpick, you can bring out the dirt from hard to reach places of the controllers, like gaps between the keys, on the sides, screws, etc.
- III. In case, you have spilt a sugary drink on your gaming controller that has made the

Source: www.wikihow.com