

Apart from this, students should be encouraged to share pictures of the topics which they are studying or doing research on so that everyone finds online class more interesting. Similarly, sharing some interesting events that happened while working on their laptop is an amazing idea.

Ensuring continuity of communication with students

Teachers need to keep this in mind to make sure that students do not miss any class. They can use communication apps like Whatsapp, Hangouts, Skype, etc. to inform them about the time as well as the topic that is to be taught. Once the online class is conducted, they need to answer their queries by creating a group chat where everyone can interact. They should be given enough time to think about the topic so that they can frame their doubts and post them in the group chats. Assignments can also be created and sent to students in the same way.

It is always a good idea to keep the contact numbers and email addresses of the students, because the lack of physical presence of the teacher may be intimidating for some students. In such cases, contacting them at a convenient time or using discussion forums to answer their doubts promptly can make them acquainted with the online class learning methodology. Apart from this, keeping the current scenario in mind, educators need to teach the students the need for maintaining clean and tidy surroundings, wash their hands frequently, and maintain social distancing to keep themselves safe.

Get feedback from students to improve the online class

Conducting polls and surveys is an excellent idea for encouraging learners to

Source: <https://elearningindustry.com/wp-content/uploads/2016/06/effective-online-teaching-obstacles-practices.jpg>