

for the more exceptional lucidity in taking administrative and managerial decisions in its interest.

How to Archive an Email in Outlook

Outlook items can be archived manually as well as automatically (according to how old the email is).

The following method describes how to archive files manually in Outlook:

1. Click on File. Go to Info and choose the Archive option in Cleanup Tools.
2. Choose the option Archive this folder and all subfolders, and select the folder you wish to archive.
3. For the Archive items older than the field, choose a cut-off date.
4. You can also choose where to save your archived file.
5. In case you want to archive items which are excluded from Auto-Archiving, check Include items with “Do not AutoArchive” checked.
6. Click OK.

The following method describes how to enable and disable AutoArchive in Outlook:

1. Click on File. Choose Advanced in Options.
2. Go to AutoArchive and click AutoArchive Settings.
3. Click on AutoArchive every n days and specify your interval, along with other settings.
4. AutoArchive may be disabled by unchecking AutoArchive every n days.
5. You may also change AutoArchive settings for individual folders by right-clicking on the required folder, clicking Properties, and choosing required settings in the AutoArchive Tab.

How to Restore Archived Emails in Outlook

The following method describes how archived emails can be restored in Outlook.

Accessing archived emails:

1. Click on File. Choose Open & Export. Click on Open Outlook Data File.
2. Choose the required archive (.pst) file and click OK.

Moving individual archived emails to folders:

1. Click on File. Choose Open & Export. Click on Open Outlook Data File.
2. Choose the required archive (.pst) file and click OK.
3. The sidebar will now contain the archived folders. Go to an individual