

emails lose track of their destination and make their way to the Other folder. Outlook expects you to keep an eye on such emails that stray into the unwanted territory, and also enables you to guide them back and deal with the problem for good.

You can do that by selecting Move to Focused for a one-time move, or Always move to Focused to block the out-of-bounds pathways forever. Similarly, you can choose Move to Other, or Always Move to Other to deal with intruders in your Focused view.

Sometimes, especially when you are using a phone, you may not be able to see the two views. In that case, unlike the Clutter folder, where your emails would go missing, the Focused and Other views have everything available in the Inbox.

Improved email sorting

Other than the above-mentioned views, there are also other ways of email sorting that you may find very useful. If you become overwhelmed by looking at the number of emails in your Inbox, the option of filtering your emails to see only the Unread items can go a long way in quickly helping you sort and get to what you need immediately.
