

Bar charts

Bar charts give users an additional option to change the normal positioning of the axis and their corresponding values. Here, users can add category values on the y-axis as property and their corresponding values on the x-axis to get a comparable bar chart graph from your data to evaluate the current performance.

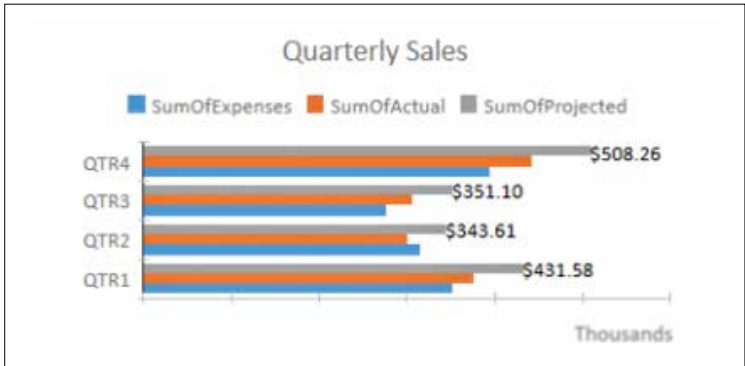

Figure: A bar chart representation

Pie charts

Pie charts offer a circular presentation with slices as a percentage of a particular value. Here, users can add category values on the pie slices and data on the corresponding y-axis values. All the data, their values, and the overall information is shared with the viewer in one circular motion.

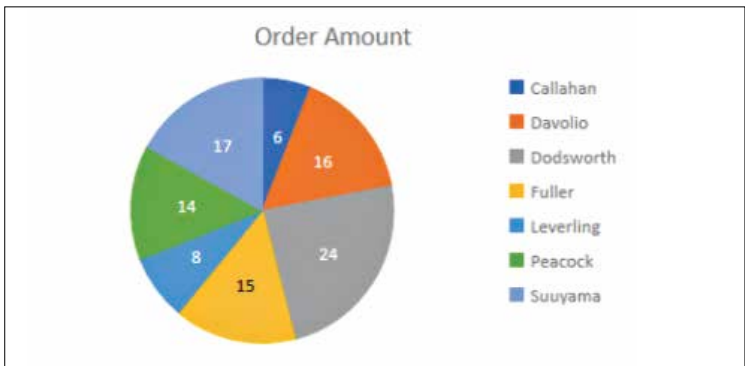

Figure: A pie chart representation