

can have a dedicated FastTrack written about it and we have done so in the past, with our FastTrack to Excel being the most recent one. Instead, we're going to be looking at the biggest improvements introduced to Microsoft Office as of their latest standalone update which is Office 2019. That alone was enough to warrant an entire FastTrack. On a side note, if you are interested in getting access to all the older FastTracks in which we've covered some of these productivity tools individually, you should pre-order the upcoming December 2020 Special Issue since we bundle our archive of magazines with it.

As always, we're open to suggestions for future FastTracks and if you spot any mess-ups from our side, please feel free to point those out as well. You can get in touch with us via editor@digit.in or any of our social media channels.
