

email to the team channel. All team members can view the content of the email, which will appear in the threaded conversation.

Direct access to SharePoint, OneDrive, Skype, and email

You can work more efficiently as Teams give you full access to all the applications of Office 365 in one place. You can do more than just video conferencing. It lets you access files and documents.

Nothing is more desirable than having all the accessories and utilities in one place when you are stuck at work. Microsoft Teams can live up to your expectations under the given circumstances. With a single utility tool, you can get hold of all your documents, notes, messages, and meetings. It provides for easy and quick collaboration providing team members real-time access.

Collaborate live in real-time

If you have felt exasperated with the slowness of updates in Teams, then the latest rendition offers you real-time changes that will come to you as a pleasant surprise. There is no need to take turns for email updates. It is possible to work on files together through Teams. Thus, it will be possible to complete your work in real-time with your close associates. Hence, there will be no unwanted redundancy.

Access Teams across all of your devices

Apart from having a comprehensive web interface, Teams lets you collaborate on the move, and you can ask or answer questions from a remote location through the mobile app of Teams.

The Teams mobile app is available on iOS, Windows, and Android. The interface of Teams offers ease when it comes down to chatting with your team members via text, video meetings, and voice conversations. The mobile version of this app is becoming hugely popular in contemporary workspaces.

Secure collaboration externally and internally

Microsoft Teams has nearly flawless security features placing it miles ahead of its competitors. It follows robust security protocols complying with your Office 365 subscription.

It lets you personalize a team publicly or privately available for other users within the business having a registered Office 365 account. You will be provided with advanced security features that will be offering cover for