

also about the presenter. In a real-life presentation, you can see the face and hand gestures of the presenter, which ties the presentation together, while in a virtual presentation, slides backed by a voice don't feel complete. Custom Layout is a feature where the presenter's feed will be added to the foreground of a presentation to complete the experience.

Offline support

Working on a college project with someone who doesn't have access to the internet all the time can be frustrating. Due to transportation problems and the pandemic, many people are stuck in areas where internet connectivity is erratic and slow. In March, Microsoft launched the desktop and macOS app that helped participants work even with limited bandwidth. Now, it has brought in a feature where people can send messages, and perform tasks offline that are automatically synced when data becomes available. This feature has also been made available on Android.

Templates

Setting up Teams perfectly suited your preferences can take time. To get started with Teams easily, Microsoft has launched a bunch of Templates depending on the type of organisation, and the purpose of using Teams. These templates will have pre-made channels, apps, tasks, and guidance. Templates for retail stores, educational institutions, healthcare, frontline workers, Government, and many more, are available for users. Users can set up this template to get started, and then tweak things as
