

In most cases, this can be dealt with by ignoring, using chatbots, and by moderators. However, in some cases, scenarios get severe, which need stringent action. Platforms like Twitch, Facebook, and YouTube have rolled out guidelines to maintain community discipline. They are also making the best use of technology to deal with the problem creators and make streaming platforms a safe and healthy place for creators and enthusiasts. d