B Tips for becoming one

Are you interested in playing video games and making money at the same time? If you answered yes, then read on.

First off, you need to get an account on a game distribution platform. Steam, Origin, UPlay, GOG, etc are some of the biggest ones on the planet. You can purchase and download games from these platforms whenever you wish to. They have a library management tool such as a desktop client to help manage all your game purchases and installations. This is where you'll get the games that you want to stream.
