

Conclusion

While not absolutely necessary, a chromakey and audio interface are great for improving the production quality of your live streams. You wouldn't usually invest in either of them as a beginner but once you do start gaining plenty of subscribers and focus on taking your streams to the next level, they are what you need. 